OUR UNION. OUR VOICE. OUR POWER.

Missouri NEA is where retired educators continue to lead—with the experience, voice, and values that shaped their classrooms and neighborhood public schools.

Joining Missouri NEA-Retired means staying connected to the profession you built, the pension you earned, and the students and educators still counting on strong public schools. Whether you're mentoring the next generation, advocating at the Capitol, or organizing locally, your leadership strengthens the fight for respect, security, and opportunity.

Your union is your platform for continued power and lasting impact.

MEMBER BENEFITS

Retirement doesn't end your impact—it gives you new ways to lead. As a retired member, you help protect the retirement security you've earned, stand up for today's educators, and support the next generation of students.

Membership keeps you informed on PSRS/PEERS, health benefits, and the policies that shape life after the classroom. You stay connected through local and statewide networks of retired educators who organize, mobilize, and speak out—whether it's defending pensions or mentoring the next generation of educators. If you substitute teach, you're covered with up to $4 million in professional liability protection.

Retirement isn't a pause—it's a new platform for power.

MISSOURI NEA WINS

Retired educators remain a powerful force in our union. As Missouri NEA members, you helped win one of the biggest victories in decades: the full repeal of GPO and WEP penalties that robbed thousands of educators of the Social Security benefits they earned.

You also helped protect the future of retirement security here at home. With two MNEA members now elected to the PSRS/PEERS board, your voice continues to shape the policies that impact your pension and your profession.

Retired members lead with experience and purpose—protecting what's been earned and building a stronger future for public schools.
