Advocacy by NEA leads to accelerated vaccine eligibility for all educators nationwide

As soon as the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines were approved by the Food and Drug Administration in mid-December, NEA immediately called on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and individual states to prioritize the 5 million teachers, instructional support personnel, aides, food service and custodial workers, and principals who work in the nation's public schools.

Educators interested in receiving COVID-19 vaccination are eligible to do so now at pharmacies participating in the Federal Retail Pharmacy Program for COVID-19. Use vaccinefinder.org to find locations and make an appointment.

In February, the Dr. Randal Williams, Director of the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services, predicted educators would receive vaccines as late as May with, "no plan to move teachers to front of vaccine line." With districts increasingly expanding in-person instruction, waiting until May for vaccination was unacceptable. Missouri NEA Pres. Phil Murray took action, writing Gov. Parson, "Educators, students, and parents have done their part; our schools have been open since the beginning of the school year using hybrid or virtual instruction to support students while keeping them safe. Now, it is time for our state leaders to do their part by prioritizing the vaccination of teachers, school support personnel, and district staff."

As part of a national organization, Missouri NEA gives Missouri educators the unique ability to advocate at the federal, state, and local level with a meaningful voice. No other organization can offer 3-tiered advocacy expertise.
